

GROTTINI

DHL

DHL, a world leader in logistics services, with offices in over 220 countries, recently inaugurated a new DHL Express branch in Castenedolo, in the province of Brescia. It is a strategic hub that is in line with DHL's goal to allow Italian companies greater competitiveness on an international level.
Grottini Retail Environments managed the turnkey construction of the Service Point based on a project by the Roberto Perego Architect studio. DHL Service Points are an important meeting place between the brand and customers as they allow you to receive and ship quickly, with a guarantee of quality service for customers. Castenedolo was only the pilot project of a collaboration between Grottini and DHL which will see the creation of other centers throughout the country.
